Our Core Values

Our practice is based on our core values, which help guide us in every decision we make. Our goal is to create an environment where clients, families and our team feel welcome, cared for and supported.

Neurodiverse affirming

Our therapies are strengths-based and recommended by autistic adults, and focus on developing the community around the child, rather than just changing the child.

We also hope to provide a supportive work environment for people of all backgrounds, life experiences and diversities.

Focus on Quality

We pride ourselves on delivering a quality service to every person who walks through our doors. Our therapies are evidence-based, and best practice according to autism and neurodivergent experts.

This also means our team regularly complete training and mentorship to allow them to provide quality services!

Family-centred

Our services aim to strengthen the family and community around the child. This means that the child receives support and understanding regardless of where they are.

We also aim to be flexible with regards to our team and their lifestyle needs. We can support a range of hours and working week structures.

Safe Space

We're passionate about providing a safe space for our families and children.

We aim to provide a safe and nurturing work environment, so that our team enjoys coming to work, and can thrive to be the best version of themselves.

Ongoing 1 on 1 mentoring

We believe that without support, no one can be expected to grow and develop their clinical skills. That's why our 1 on 1 mentoring is so valuable - it's your time to get support for your clinical skills and to discuss any professional development activities you might complete to achieve your goals.

Expect us to give you individual mentoring and support, so that you can grow in all areas of your role. This means we will be accountable to you, just as you'll be accountable to us in all that you do. ## Open and honest communication

If you are unhappy with something or someone in our workplace, we expect you to let us know. If we can do something better or in a different way to make your job easier we will, but we can only do this if you are open and honest with us and willing to learn in all areas of your work.

We also expect you to regularly communicate with us and keep us up to date with your clients, your tasks and any ongoing projects. We have multiple avenues for regular communication, both formal and informal and we expect you to use them so that we know how you're travelling.

Accept responsibility

Just as we take responsibility for our actions, behaviours, and outcomes we expect you to do the same. We don't blame others or make excuses for why something didn't work out the way we wanted. We expect that you take responsibility for your client's and their outcomes, and for all other tasks to take on while working with us. We expect you to be accountable to your agreed KPIs, and to be open to feedback when these need to be improved.
